Please note:

The Local Authority has produced a model relationships education policy for primary schools, and a relationships and sex education policy for secondary schools. They have been written in consultation with the Council for Mosques, Bradford SACRE and Bradford Equity Partnership in order to support the delivery of relationships and sex education that is age appropriate and respectful of faith and diversity. The model policies are consistent with the requirements set out in the DfE 2019 statutory guidance on relationships and sex education.

Please be aware that this is the policy we have based ours on.

Vision Statement

We nurture an aspirational family of hard-working, respectful individuals who work collaboratively to have a lifelong love of learning.

“Life in all its fullness” (John 10:10)

Our vision is to ensure that our school family are happy and fulfilled in a creative learning environment. This is flexible and caters to individual needs while developing a life-long love for learning through which all members can flourish. We nurture an aspirational family of hard-working, respectful individuals who work collaboratively.

1. Aim

The aim of relationships education at our school is to help pupils develop self-respect, confidence and empathy. Pupils will learn about what makes healthy relationships, focusing on family and friendships, in a way that is age appropriate and sensitive to their faith. This will include online relationships, and how to seek help if they feel unsafe. Teaching will respect the diversity of families in our community.

Relationships education is not solely about sexual relationships. Relationships Education will build positive foundations for healthy and safe relationships of all kinds. This will start with family and friends, how to be kind, and exploring online friendships.

Our aim at Wycliffe CE Primary is to teach RSE in accordance with our school motto of: “All different-All equal” and in accordance with our ethos whereby: “We seek to provide pupils with a clear and solid moral framework, part of which is tolerance of the different beliefs and cultures of others, and equal opportunities for all.” Our vision of all our pupils being entitled to life in all its fullness will be supported as we teach RSE in order to ensure that our school family are happy and fulfilled and grow up to be respectful individuals.

- Intent: what pupils should know and understand.
- Implementation: taught through PSHE / curriculum.
- Impact: pupils demonstrate respectful relationships and safety awareness.

2. Policy Development

This policy has been developed in consultation with staff, pupils and parents as required by the Department for Education. We are committed to on-going consultation with families and stakeholders throughout the evolution of our school’s Relationships Education Programme. This process involved the following steps:

1. Review – a working group pulled together all relevant information including national and local guidance.
2. Staff consultation – staff had the opportunity to look at the policy and make recommendations.
3. Parent/stakeholder discussion – parents and any interested parties were invited to discuss our policy and share their views.
4. Pupil consultation – we spoke to pupils about the skills they would like to learn.
5. Ratification – once amendments were made, the policy was shared with governors and ratified.

Content is carefully sequenced from EYFS to Year 6 to build knowledge progressively.

3. Statutory Requirements

Relationships education has been compulsory in primary schools since 2020, meaning that all pupils must take part in these lessons.

Sex education is not compulsory for primary schools. Pupils will learn about puberty through a variety of ways, including talks delivered by health professionals and as part of Science and Health Education lessons in Year 4/5/6. Other aspects of sex education will not be covered unless safeguarding concerns determine otherwise. Parents will be informed in advance if that happens. Head teachers will automatically grant a request to withdraw a pupil from any sex education delivered in primary schools, other than as part of the Science curriculum. (Quoted from: Relationships Education, Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) and Health Education Statutory guidance for governing bodies, proprietors, head teachers, principals, senior leadership teams, teachers 2019).

4. Links to other policies and curriculum areas

4a Curriculum

At Key Stage 2, the Science curriculum includes teaching about changes to the human body as it grows from birth to old age, including puberty. This remains statutory along with the whole Science curriculum.

Religious Education links to relationships education by looking at family, values and morals, and the celebration of marriage in different traditions.

Health Education, which is statutory in state funded schools from September 2020, includes teaching on feelings as they relate to mental wellbeing, the importance of friends and family, the impact of bullying, and how children can seek help if they have worries. It also requires schools to teach about the emotional and physical changes that take place during puberty.

4b Policies

The content of Relationships Education is supported by our Behaviour Policy, Equality Policy, and Safeguarding Policy.

5. Delivery of Relationships Education

Relationships education will be inclusive for all pupils, sensitive to all family and faith backgrounds and pupils' own identities. It will be respectful of all protected characteristics under the Equality Act 2010. Protected characteristics are age, disability, gender reassignment, race, religion or belief, sex, sexual orientation, marriage and civil partnership and pregnancy and maternity.

Across all Key Stages, pupils will be supported to develop the following skills as appropriate to their age:

- Communication skills
- Forming positive relationships including self-respect as well as respect and empathy for others
- Recognising and assessing potential risks
- Assertiveness and managing conflict and difficult emotions

These skills are taught within the context of family life and friendships, in an age-appropriate way. The school environment will reflect, value and celebrate the diversity of friendships and relationships. Lessons will be delivered by school staff.

Children will sometimes ask questions pertaining to relationships, sex or sexuality that go beyond what is set out in the curriculum. If questions go unanswered by school staff, children may turn to inappropriate sources of information including the internet. We will answer any questions in a way that is sensitive to children's family and faith backgrounds, appropriate to their age and understanding, and consistent with the relationships education policy and scheme of work. This may necessitate discussion on a one-to-one basis or in small groups, as not every child in a class will have the same type of questions. We may contact parents if we need guidance about a child's needs or if we think a child would benefit from their parents' input around a particular issue.

The Department for Education (DfE) has set out guidance on what children must learn by the end of Year 6, under a series of themes. The statutory content as written by the DfE is set out below. Some themes will recur throughout school while others will be taught in the most appropriate years.

Families and people who care for me

- Families are important for children growing up because they can give love, security and stability.
- Characteristics of healthy family life, commitment to each other, including in times of difficulty, protection and care for children and other family members, the importance of spending time together and sharing each other's lives.
- Others' families, either in school or in the wider world, sometimes look different from their family, but that they should respect those differences and know that other children's families are also characterised by love and care.
- Stable, caring relationships, which may be of different types, are at the heart of happy families, and are important for children's security as they grow up.
- Marriage represents a formal and legally recognised commitment of two people to each other which is intended to be lifelong.
- How to recognise if family relationships are making them feel unhappy or unsafe, and how to seek help or advice from others if needed.

Caring friendships

- How important friendships are in making us feel happy and secure, and how people choose and make friends.
- Characteristics of friendships, including mutual respect, truthfulness, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences and support with problems and difficulties.
- Healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded.
- Most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right.
- How to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed.

Respectful relationships

- The importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs.
 - Practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships.
- The conventions of courtesy and manners.
- The importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness.
- In school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.
- Different types of bullying (including cyberbullying), the impact of bullying, responsibilities of bystanders (primarily reporting bullying to an adult) and how to get help.
- What a stereotype is, and how stereotypes can be unfair, negative or destructive.
- The importance of permission-seeking and giving in relationships with friends, peers and adults.

Online relationships

- People sometimes behave differently online, including by pretending to be someone they are not.
- The same principles apply to online relationships as to face-to-face relationships, including the importance of respect for others online including when we are anonymous.
- Rules and principles for keeping safe online, how to recognise risks, harmful content and contact, and how to report them.
- How to critically consider their online friendships and sources of information including awareness of the risks associated with people they have never met.

- How information and data is shared and used online.

Being safe

- What sorts of boundaries are appropriate in friendships with peers and others (including in a digital context).
- Privacy and the implications of it for both children and adults; including that it is not always right to keep secrets if they relate to being safe.
- Each person's body belongs to them, and the differences between appropriate and inappropriate or unsafe physical, and other, contact.
- How to respond safely and appropriately to adults they may encounter (in all contexts, including online) whom they do not know.
- How to recognise and report feelings of being unsafe or feeling bad about any adult.
- How to ask for advice or help for themselves or others, and to keep trying until they are heard.
- How to report concerns or abuse, and the vocabulary and confidence needed to do so.
- Where to get advice e.g., family, school and/or other sources.

6. Roles and responsibilities

6.1 The Governing Board

The Governing Board will approve the relationships education policy and hold the head teacher to account for its implementation.

6.2 The Head Teacher

The Head Teacher is responsible for ensuring that relationships education is taught consistently across the school, and for managing requests to withdraw pupils from non-statutory sex education lessons, if applicable.

6.3 Staff

Staff are responsible for:

- Delivering Relationships Education in a sensitive way, taking account of pupils' family and faith backgrounds.
- Modelling positive attitudes to Relationships Education, as with any other subject.
- Monitoring children's learning in order to ensure they make progress.
- Responding to the needs of individual pupils. Responding appropriately to pupils whose parents wish them to be withdrawn from the non-statutory sex education lessons, if applicable. Wycliffe does not teach non-statutory sex education.

Staff do not have the right to opt out of teaching Relationships Education. Staff who have concerns about teaching this subject are encouraged to seek support.

6.4 Pupils

Pupils are expected to engage fully in Relationships Education lessons and treat others with respect and sensitivity, as we expect all the time in school.

7. Parents' right to withdraw their children from lessons

Parents have the right to withdraw their children from Sex Education lessons taught as part of the Relationships Education or PSHE curriculum. Sex education is not part of Wycliffe's RSE/PSHE curriculum and therefore all content taught at Wycliffe is a statutory requirement.

Requests for withdrawal should be put in writing and addressed to the Headteacher. A copy of withdrawal requests will be placed in the pupil's file so that parents' wishes are on record.

Primary schools are required to teach the elements of sex education contained in the Science curriculum and there continues to be no right to withdraw from these lessons. The Science

National Curriculum outlines in which year groups these elements are taught.

8. Training

Staff are supported with the delivery of Relationships Education and training is included in our continuing professional development calendar.

The Headteacher will also invite visitors from outside the school, such as school nurses or sexual health professionals, to provide support and training to staff teaching RSE. The sessions delivered by outside visitors will be consistent with our policy on Relationships Education.

9. Monitoring arrangements

The delivery of RSE is monitored by senior leaders through a rigorous cycle of book scrutiny, lesson observations, drop-ins and the analysis of pupil voice conversations.

Pupils' development in RSE is monitored by class teachers as part of our internal assessment systems.

This policy will be reviewed by senior leaders annually. At every review, the policy will be scrutinized and ratified by the governing board.
